Actually welcoming less work and the possibility of taking next summer off. However I think that I would look for something new and interesting following that.

Hi Frank how are you? What happened on Lehman is that we have reduced the claim from $4.2b to about $780m and they agreed to ring fence the settlement of it subject to accepting the claim. The claim has not yet been accepted but the money has been put aside and our lawyers are prepared to fight for it for the next 10 years. So we are not done yet!

Are you welcoming less work or would you like some more? Best regards George

George,

I heard last week that Canary Wharf has settled the amount of its bankruptcy claim with Lehman. Looks like things will finally start winding down here assuming the creditor's committee approves the plan sanctioned by the bankruptcy court this week. I expect to work a more limited schedule starting in January -probably two days every other week-through the spring. Then it's anyone's guess. Will probably take the summer off.

Frank
